

Boulder City's popular 'RamCam' gets major high-def upgrade

By Martha Cruz, August 6, 2026

Wildlife enthusiasts and residents looking for a closer gaze at Hemenway Park's famous desert bighorn sheep are in for a clearer view.

This week, Boulder City crews relocated the city's Earthcam from the Damboree Parade Route to Hemenway Park. The upgraded camera replaces the older "RamCam," which was originally installed several years ago.

According to city officials, the newly relocated camera boasts significantly higher resolution and enhanced zoom capabilities, allowing viewers to easily close in for a sharper, more detailed look at the park's iconic wildlife.
